

Working with Shame in Psychotherapy and in Psychological Assessment

A WORKSHOP FOR ALL MENTAL HEALTH PROFESSIONALS AND STUDENTS
SPONSORED BY THE CENTER FOR THERAPEUTIC ASSESSMENT, THE THERAPEUTIC ASSESSMENT INSTITUTE, AND THE SOCIETY FOR PERSONALITY ASSESSMENT

It is now recognized that shame is one of the most important and frequent client experiences in psychotherapy and psychological assessment, yet few mental health professionals and psychotherapists receive direct training in how to help their clients with shame. In this 2-day intensive workshop, Dr. Finn will review contemporary research about shame, outline a theory based in interpersonal neurobiology, and discuss implications for applied clinical work. He will show videotapes--of himself and other clinicians from the Therapeutic Assessment Institute--working with clients around shame, and will teach a number of specific, effective interventions that can help clients heal shame. At various points during the workshop, participants will work in small groups doing role plays of these shame interventions, but at no point will participants' personal issues be directly exposed. Finally, Dr. Finn will discuss shame in clinicians, and how it both limits our effectiveness and gives us empathy for our clients

Friday- Saturday, September 20-21, 2019 in Austin, Texas

At the end of the workshop, participants will be able to:

- Describe contemporary psychobiological theories of shame and recent research about shame
- List and recognize signs of shame in themselves and in their clients
- Utilize three specific interventions that can help clients heal from shame
- List the most common coping mechanisms against shame
- Describe a therapeutic strategy for working with clients who defend against shame
- Identify and be aware of their personal shame

As an added bonus, participants will also have time-limited access to an online library of articles and chapters about shame that they are free to read or download for their own use.

Presenter: Stephen Finn

Stephen E. Finn, Ph.D., founder of the Center for Therapeutic Assessment, is a licensed clinical psychologist in practice in Austin, TX, a Clinical Associate Professor of Psychology at the University of Texas at Austin, Senior Researcher and Director of Training at the European Center for Therapeutic Assessment at Catholic University of Milan, Italy, and Director of Training at the Asian-Pacific Center for Therapeutic Assessment in Tokyo, Japan. He has published 60+ articles and chapters on psychological assessment, psychotherapy, and other topics in clinical psychology, and is the author of multiple books, including In Our Clients' Shoes: Theory and Techniques of Therapeutic Assessment (Erlbaum, 2007). In 2011 Dr. Finn was awarded the Bruno Klopfer Award from the Society of Personality Assessment for distinguished lifetime contributions to the field of personality assessment. In September 2016 the American Psychological Association published a DVD with Dr. Finn working with a client as part of the APA Psychotherapy Video Series. In 2017 he received an award from Section IX (Assessment) of the Society for Clinical Psychology (Division 12 of APA) for Distinguished Scientific Contributions to Assessment Psychology. In 2018, Dr. Finn was given the Carl Rogers Award for Distinguished Contributions to the Theory and Practice of Humanistic Psychology from the Society for Humanistic Psychology (Division 32 of APA).
